Ielts how long is the test. How long is ielts written test. Ielts test format explained. Ielts test time length.

The International English Language Testing System (IELTS) evaluates you on all four language skills - listening, reading, writing, and speaking. The total test time is 2 hour 44 minutes plus 10 minutes of transfer time. The Listening (L), Reading (R), and Writing (W) components of the test are always completed immediately after each other and with no break. You will do the Listening component first followed by the Reading and Writing components of the test. Depending on the test centre, the Speaking test may be taken up to 7 days either before or after the test date. There is no difference in the content, format or level of difficulty and scoring between IELTS General Training and Academic examination. The listening and speaking tests remain the same for both the versions. IELTS Listening test (30 minutes) You will have to listen to four recordings and then answer the questions asked. The recordings are of native English speakers and the duration of the test is 30 minutes. Recording 1: You will listen to a dialogue placed in daily life and context. Recording 2: You will listen to a monologue about everyday life or social context. For instance, a talk on the condition of streets in an area. Recording 3: You will listen to a conversation between more than two people placed in a training or educational context. For instance, a teacher discussing an assignment with students. Recording 4: You will listen to a monologue about any academic subject. For instance, a college lecture. In your Listening test, you will be assessed on your ability to comprehend the ideas, facts, attitudes and opinions of the speakers, the purpose of the recording and how well you follow the development of ideas. IELTS Reading test (60 minutes) The IELTS Reading test requires you to answer 40 questions and is designed to test you on an array of reading skills. You would have to read for gist, main ideas, details, logical arguments, skimming, and figuring out the writers' attitudes, opinions and intentions. The Reading test for Academic module consists of three long texts which can be descriptive, factual and analytical. The texts are taken from magazines, books, newspapers or journals and are apt for individuals who want to pursue university education or professional registration overseas. Excerpts in the Reading test for General Training module are taken from the newspaper, books, notices, company handbooks, advertisements and magazines. You need to read them well to answer the questions that follow. IELTS Writing test (60 minutes) The IELTS writing test requires you to complete two tasks and covers topics of general interest based on the module you are taking. IELTS Academic comprises topics suitable for undergraduate and postgraduate students Task 1: There will be a table, chart, graph or diagram that you will have to describe, explain or summarise in your own words. You might also be asked to explain the data shown, and stages and working of a process. Task 2: You will have to write an essay as a response to an argument, problem or opinion. Make sure you respond to both tasks in formal style IELTS General Training module consists of excerpts on general topics from books, magazines, notices, company handbooks and guidelines that you are likely to face on a regular basis in an English speaking environment Task 1: You will have to write a letter to request information on, or explaining the given situation. You may choose to write it informally or formally. Task 2: You will have to write an essay as a response to an argument, problem or opinion. You may choose to write it in informal style. IELTS Speaking test (11-14 minutes) The IELTS Speaking test assesses your spoken English skills. The test is recorded and conducted in three parts. Part 1: You are asked questions about yourself and generic topics like family, home, work, interests and studies. This takes about 4-5 minutes. Part 2: You are given a card with a topic written on it. You have to talk on this topic for about two minutes and will have a minute to prepare before you start speaking. The examiner will also ask a few related questions on the topic allotted. The IELTS test format is the same wherever you take your exam. The exam is divided into four parts - Writing, Listening, Reading, and Speaking. This ensures that your skills in all four components of the English Language are tested. There are two test formats - Academic and General Training - and you can choose which one to take. 1. outline the two formats below and have included more information to help you decide which version of the exam to take on the following page: Which IELTS? Academic or General. How long does the IELTS exam take? The total exam time is 2 hours and 45 minutes whichever IELTS test format you take: Writing: 60 minutes - 2 tasks. Listening: 30 minutes - 40 questions. Reading: 60 minutes - 40 questions. Speaking: 11 to 14 minutes - three-part conversation with an examiner. You will take the Writing, Listening and Reading components on the same day, one after the other with no break in between them. Your Speaking test may take place on the same day after a break. Alternatively, it may take place either 7 days before or 7 days after your main exam date. This will depend on your test centre. All candidates take the same Listening and Speaking tests but different Reading and Writing tests. The key difference in the IELTS test format between Academic and General Training is in the subject matter of the Reading and Writing sections. IELTS Test Format - The Details Timing - 60 minutes IELTS Test Format - You can choose to take either the Academic or the General Training test. The only difference between the two is the material used in the test and the type of language you will use in your answers. The IELTS test format for Writing has two parts - Task 1 and Task 2. You must write a minimum of 150 words for Task 1 and a minimum of 250 words for Task 2. Academic Writing Task 1 - You will be presented with a graph, table, chart or diagram. You are required to describe, summarise or explain the information in your own words. For example, you may be asked to: describe and explain data describe the stages of a process describe how something works describe an object or event Task 2 - You will be required to write an essay on a topic of general interest. Your essay will be a response to a specific point of view, problem or argument that will be stated in the question. Your response to both tasks should be written in a formal style. General Training Writing Both writing tasks in the General Training test are based on topics of general interest. Task 1 - You will be required to write a letter requesting information or explaining the situation in relation to a specific circumstance. The letter may be written in a personal or semi-formal style as appropriate to the situation. Task 2 - You will be required to write an essay on a topic of general interest. Your essay will be a response to a specific point of view, problem or argument that will be stated in the question. You may use a more personal style than would be required in the Academic Writing Task 2 essay. Skills Assessed The Writing test is designed to assess your ability in the following aspects: content organisation of ideas accuracy and range of vocabulary and grammar Below are the assessment criteria for each IELTS test format. The criteria for any specific essay will depend on the type of task you are asked to complete. Academic Writing Task 1 - Your essay will be assessed in relation to your ability to achieve one or more of the following: organise, present and possibly compare data describe the stages of a process or procedure describe an object or event or sequence of events explain how something works Task 2 - Your essay will be assessed in relation to your ability to achieve one or more of the following: present a solution to a problem present and justify an opinion compare and contrast evidence, opinions and implications evaluate and challenge ideas, evidence or an argument General Training Writing Task 1 - Your letter will assess your ability to engage in personal correspondence and be assessed in relation to one or more of these skills: elicit and provide general factual information express needs, wants, likes and dislikes express opinions (e.g. views, complaints) Task 2 - Your essay will be assessed in relation to one or more of the following: outline a problem and present a solution present and justify an opinion evaluate and challenge ideas, evidence or an argument Marking The overall assessment criteria for IELTS Writing, stated on the official website, are: Task Achievement (i.e. appropriate response to the task) Coherence and Cohesion (i.e. ability to present a well-structured essay) Lexical Resource (i.e. ability to use vocabulary correctly and to use a range of appropriate vocabulary) Grammatical Range and Accuracy (i.e. ability to use grammar correctly and to use a range of grammar forms) Click these links for PDF downloads giving detailed descriptions of the criteria for each of the writing tasks. Writing Task 1 - Assessment Criteria Writing Task 2 - Assessment Criteria* Note that Task 2, the longer of the two essays, carries twice as many points as Task 1. Your marks for the two essays are converted to an overall Writing score on the IELTS Band Scale. Timing - 30 minutes (plus 10 minutes to transfer the answers to your answer sheet) IELTS Test Format - The IELTS test format for Listening is made up of four sections. In each section, you will listen to a recorded text and then answer a series of questions on it. The text will be played only once. Over the course of the test, you will hear a variety of voices and native-speaker accents. There are 40 questions in the test. You will be asked a variety of different types of questions selected from this list: Matching Multiple choice Note completion Form completion Table completion Sentence completion Summary completion Flow-chart completion Short-answer questions Plan/map/diagram labelling The 4 Sections Section 1 - A conversation between two people set in an everyday social context (e.g. booking tickets to the theatre). Section 2 - A monologue set in an everyday social context (e.g. a welcome talk for new college students). Section 3 - A conversation between up to four people set in an educational or training context (e.g. a group of students discussing a university assignment). Section 4 - A monologue on an academic subject (e.g. a lecture on wildlife). You will have time to look at material relevant to the test before the recordings start and to read the questions that you will be asked. Skills Assessed The Listening test is designed to assess your ability to: understand main ideas understand detailed factual information recognise the opinions and attitudes of speakers recognise the purpose of the communication follow the development of ideas or arguments Marking Each correct answer is awarded 1 mark. Your score out of 40 is converted to the corresponding IELTS band scale level. Timing - 60 minutes IELTS Test Format - There are two versions of the Reading test - Academic and General Training. The difference is in the length and type of the texts. The IELTS test format for both versions is made up of three parts. I'll give you more details about each version in a minute. There are 40 questions in the test. You will be asked a variety of different types of questions in order to test a wide range of reading skills. The tasks will be selected from this list: multiple choice identifying information identifying a writer's views/claims matching information matching headings matching sentence endings sentence completion summary completion note completion table completion flow-chart completion diagram label completion short-answer questions Academic Reading The three sections each contain one long text taken from real books, newspapers, magazines or journals. The texts will be of general interest and may contain diagrams, illustrations or graphs. A glossary will be provided if the text contains technical terms. General Training Reading Section 1 - two or three short factual texts related to everyday life (e.g. hotel evacuation procedure, a series of related advertisements, a course outline). Section 2 - two short factual texts related to work (e.g. job description, staff training, disciplinary procedures). Section 3 - one longer text of greater complexity (e.g. general interest texts from books, newspapers, magazines, company brochures or handbooks). Skills Assessed The Reading test is designed to assess your ability to: read for gist read for main ideas read for detail understand inferences and implied meaning recognise writer's opinions, attitudes and purpose follow the development of an argument Marking Each correct answer is awarded 1 mark. Your score out of 40 is converted to the corresponding IELTS band scale level. Timing - 11-14 minutes IELTS Test Format - The IELTS test format for Speaking is comprised of three parts. Part 1 - Introduction and interview (4-5 minutes) The examiner will ask you general questions about yourself and your life, e.g. your home, family, interests, work / studies. Part 2 - Individual speaking (3-4 minutes) The examiner will give you a card with a topic written on it. You will be asked to speak on this topic for 1-2 minutes. The examiner may ask you one or two questions about your topic. You will be given 1 minute for preparation during which you are allowed to make notes. It is impossible to predict the type of question you will be asked as the potential range of topics is vast. Here are a few real examples to illustrate this: Your dream job. Your favourite subject in school. An unusual meal you've had. A situation where you had to be polite. An event or celebration you attended. An occasion a visitor came to your house. Work you got positive feedback for. An activity for healthy living. An exciting book. Recent development in your town. A journey you took recently. A favourite childhood toy. Part 3 - Two-way discussion (4-5 minutes) The examiner will ask you more questions about your Part 2 topic leading to a two-way discussion on the subject. This will give you the opportunity to show a greater range of speaking skills. Skills Assessed The Speaking test is designed to assess your ability to: communicate opinions and information on everyday topics and common experiences and situations speak at length on a given topic using appropriate language and organising ideas coherently express and justify opinions and to analyse, discuss and speculate about issues Marking The overall assessment criteria for IELTS Speaking, stated on the official website, are: Fluency and Coherence Lexical Resource Grammatical Range and Accuracy Pronunciation Click this links for a PDF download giving detailed descriptions of these criteria. Speaking Task - Assessment Criteria The examiner will assess your speaking skills and give you a score on the IELTS band scale. All tests are recorded. Understanding the IELTS test format is an important part of preparing for your exam. Think about this information as you practice your English skills and plan for your test day.
